sghesummit.com

As a leader in health professional education, you are invited to submit a poster abstract to the 2021 Sex and Gender Health Education \(SGHE\) Summit to showcase programs within your institution or highlight research on curriculum development, integration, assessment, or curriculum product development in sex and gender specific health. Attendees are invited from a variety of professions, including but not limited to:

- Medicine
- Nursing
- Pharmacy
- Dentistry
- Occupational Therapy
- Physical Therapy
- Population Health
- Public Health

Sex and Gender Specific Health (SGSH) refers broadly to sex and gender differences in health and may be applied across health professions. These terms are based on the understanding that biology (dictated by sex chromosomes) and social roles (gender) are important in and have implications for prevention, screening, diagnosis, and treatment of disease and in the design and implementation of health research policy, programs, and services in men and women.

We welcome posters concerning LGBTQ+ health, but our scope is intended to be much broader in encompassing programs that address sex and gender differences in every aspect of health and in all professions, including curricular innovation and assessment, faculty development, educational policy and advocacy, and attitudes and awareness.

Abstracts should include the following: background, objectives, methods/research, and conclusions/impact. You may view the proceedings and poster abstracts from past Summits here. First authors will be notified of acceptance in October 2021, and the top three posters will also be selected for oral presentation. Questions? Please contact cchau@amwa-doc.org.
